Thursday 9th of May 2019 Consensus Conference Early School Workers (ESW): schools as training enterprises The new identity of VET centres lies at the intersection between school and work, as several international and national experiences show. Contemporary VET centres embrace and unify learning needs with the progressive undertaking of a worker's identity. The ESW (Early School Workers) project focuses on U.K. University Technical Colleges (UTCs) to create a transferability model, in the form of Guidelines, of their school-based enterprise experience. This Consensus Conference represents an important moment to read, discuss and validate the UTCs Transferability Guidelines with the support of experts and relevant stakeholders.

9.15	Institutional greetings Regione Emilia-Romagna and Regione Puglia

Lunch prepared by the students of ENAC Lombardia CFP Canossa – Brescia centre
14.15-17.00 Parallel Workshops to analyse the ESW Guidelines Time, space and groupings In this workshop it will be discussed how UTCs organize school time and learning spaces and how they form and manage class groups. Some practical indications will be validated to replicate the experience in other contexts. Staff and organizational model – workshop in English recommended for project partners Hiring staff with the right characteristics and setting up an organizational model is essential to create an encouraging learning environment for children. The working group will focus on the variables that characterize the English context and on what can be transferred from this experience. The curriculum and the PBL method The group will discuss how to create a curriculum that integrates professional and socio-emotional skills as well as identify the main variables to replicate teaching models based on "learning by doing" and more specifically Project based Learning. Evaluation system The workshop on the evaluation will focus on how to organize an efficient learning assessment model that takes into consideration professional and soft skills as well as experiences outside the school context (alternation, etc.), and that takes on the characteristics of a "formative assessment" that is really useful to those who receive it.
