education, empowerment, and rehabilitation»

Summer school

Music as a support to train language skills

Concepts, methods, and techniques to empower and rehabilitate speech disorders through evidence-based musical activities in children and adults

Lužnica (Croatia), 21 – 26 July 2019

Aims

The goal of the summer school is to provide participants a set of evidence-based concepts, practical tools, and techniques involving music, which are applicable to people with various language disorders – such as dyslexia, dysphasia, speech apraxia, reduced verbal fluency, or speech fluctuations (stuttering and explosive speech with interruptions) – and speech disorders that can result in abnormal tone, volume, colour, breath control, or prosody of speech.

Across the summer school the participants will be familiar with the practical application of music-based activities used for educational and rehabilitation purposes in the field of speech and communication in order to address difficulties in the functional and spontaneous speech, speech understanding, and speech motor control, and coordination needed for articulation, verbal fluency, voice production, speech sequencing, speech timing (pace), and speech intelligibility.

Target Participants

- rehabilitators and therapists (in particular speech therapists and music therapists)
- psychologists, neuropsychologists, neuropsychiatrists
- educators and trainers
- musicians and experts working in the musical field with educational, therapeutic, or rehabilitation goals
- students interested in rehabilitation, music therapy, music education.

The summer school will be held in English.

No specific musical skills are required. If a participant plays a musical instrument, he/she may take it with him/her if he/she wants.

Teaching Activities

Three kinds of activities are scheduled in the summer school: lessons, practical tool sessions, personal growth workshops.

The purpose of the lectures will be to explain the theoretical to describe and give examples of the rehabilitation procedures.

In practical tool sessions participants will be involved in the implementation of rehabilitation procedures and their adaptation to the areas in which they work.

The goal of the personal development workshop is to encourage participants to reflect on their own characteristics and professional practice to enhance their communication and interpersonal skills with the help of music.

The total number of hours of teaching activities will be 36 (corresponding to 10 ECTS).
